CONNER & WINTERS IS ENERGIZING OKC!

OKLAHOMA CITY – (June 1, 2007) In a major move to complement and enhance the firm's presence in the Oklahoma City marketplace, Conner & Winters has hired Robin F. Fields as a Partner. Ms. Fields is an experienced trial attorney who focuses her practice on complex litigation with a special emphasis on energy and environmental law. Fields' practice involves litigating complex technical and business issues, industry wide issues, intricate contract issues and environmental issues arising from all aspects of oil and gas operations. Fields' litigation experience includes representing clients as lead trial counsel in complex business litigation, oil and gas litigation, qui tam litigation, Multi-District Litigation, multi-state class action litigation and concurrent, multi-forum litigation.

Fields' experience includes dealing with environmental issues relating to groundwater, soils, removal and clean-up activities and cost recovery. Fields also has extensive experience in litigating oil and gas disputes involving underground natural gas storage, gas measurement, Joint Operating Agreement, gas marketing, oil and gas pricing, balancing and royalty issues.

Fields' has devoted substantial time to litigation in state and federal courts, arbitration and other alternative dispute resolution processes. She is a member of the faculty at the National Institute of Trial Advocacy and has spoken at litigation and environmental seminars.

While Conner & Winters has long been known as one of the leading business and litigation law firms in the region, the addition of Ms. Fields' practice will provide a foundation to the firm's energy and environmental litigation capability in Oklahoma City. Said firm president Bob Curry: "Robin's expertise and reputation in the energy industry greatly improve our ability to service clients not only in Oklahoma but in fact nationwide. We are constantly looking for opportunities to fortify and enhance our ability to deliver quality services to our clients. Robin is well known and highly respected in the energy industry in Oklahoma and beyond. We are very excited about the future of our Oklahoma City office with the addition of Robin."
